

eLearning that SUITS YOU

Take control of how you learn

Your own pace, your own place

These days everyone works online. eLearning offers a cost-effective way for organisations to build capability and for professionals to develop skills quickly and effectively.

But content must be engaging, interesting and state of the art. The principles and insights of experts and practitioners must be delivered in a way that makes learning easy.

Ethos CRS offers a complete eLearning service—program design and development, exercises, videos, interactive activities—to deliver content that realises clear learning and organisational objectives.

Our programs—like Introduction to better practice regulation, which we developed for the Australian Public Service Commission—are developed by experts who understand platforms like Lectora and are proficient, for example, in HTML and MOODLE. As you'd expect, all content is SCORM 1.2 compliant and WCAG2 AA accessible.
