

News flash!
Ethos CRS is working virtually to coach managers and solve problems with teams

Skills and performance in a VIRTUAL ENVIRONMENT

Nothing is normal, so sharp skills are essential

All organisations are dealing with a new reality. Established processes and practices are being turned on their head; teams are working remotely; leaders must manage smart professionals and teams, but from a distance; projects are being quickly approved—and professionals have the job of seeing them through to a successful end.

As never before, professionals and organisations must communicate complex ideas clearly, consistently, at the right time and in a disciplined way.

This is where Ethos CRS comes in

Ethos CRS delivers content in a virtual environment: coaching, training, webinars and eLearning. We're coaching executives and supporting teams virtually to solve complex problems. If you'd like more information, please call Graham Templeton, on 02 6247 2225 or service@ethoscrs.com.au.

We're focusing first on the virtual essentials

- Effective writing as a professional
- Communicating in a virtual environment
- Media and presentation skills for crisis managers
- Mental strength, resilience and performance for managers
- Protecting teams and building resilience
- Managing teams remotely
- Clear thinking and problem solving
- Essentials of project management
- Coaching skills for managers
- Working effectively as a professional
- Managing and mitigating risk

Simple steps to set up skills for the challenge

Ethos CRS has worked with more than 90 public service agencies around Australia. We understand that business as usual is no longer business as usual. Managers, team members and teams themselves sometimes need a sounding board to test ideas and a helping hand to stay in good shape.

Online coaching • Virtual training • Webinars

In a virtual environment, Ethos CRS helps you to support staff and build essential skills. We coach individuals, train small groups and deliver webinars to large groups. Our objectives are to help you complete projects and work more efficiently and channel organisational energy to address priorities and meet deadlines.

Chas Savage leads a team of experts

The Ethos CRS team comprises expert communicators, probity and project specialists, policy experts and regulators. As professionals they've successfully managed large teams and landed complex projects—on time and within budget. As facilitators and communicators, they are the best!

No matter the platform, we've got your back

Different organisations use different platforms to deliver virtual conferences or training. No matter the platform—for example, WebEx, Zoom, GoToTraining or GovTeams and Microsoft Teams—Ethos CRS can deliver the interventions that help staff to succeed in their roles and organisations to do good work.